the best seats in the house have been counterfeited. This became known this afternoon when a man presented ten $50 tickets calling for reservations in the sections which Rickard has set aside for himself and his friends. When told they were counterfeit the man who held them looked as if he would faint. Counterfeits of lower priced tickets were discovered a week ago. The man who held them was immediately taken in hand by detectives, who obtained from him information as to where and from whom he obtained them.

There were two lines at the Madison Square Garden to-day. Those of persons buying tickets and those presenting tickets to have them passed upon as to their genuineness. Violation of the Eight-Foot Law, Brooklyn Supreme Justice Decides.

An automobilist moving abreast of a trolley car that stops at a corner may continue without violating the eight-foot law, Justice Callaghan ruled to-day in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. This is regarded as an important decision for motorists.

"I take it," said the Justice, in his decision, "and it cannot be seriously disputed, that a defendant is not guilty of violating this ordinance if the automobile is abreast of the trolley car when it stops to discharge its passengers and the automobile passes. The defendant testified at her trial that she was abreast of the car. Her testimony was not contradicted."
